TREATMENT OF SCARLET FEVER.

PREVALENCE OF THE DISEASE IN THE TENEMENT-HOUSE DISTRICTS-DR. JANEWAY'S ADVICE TO PARENTS AND NURSES.

In the more thickly settled portions of New-York, especially among the tenement-houses, scarlet fever has taken a firm hold. No one locality seems to be particularly affected, but in the neighborhood bordering both the North and the East rivers this disease is scattered very generally. Every day new cases are reported to the Board of Health. For the week ending July 19, sixty-nine cases were reported; and for the week following, forty-nine. The report for this week is as follows: Monday, five cases; Tuesday, twelve cases; yesterday, five

Professor Chandler said to a TRIBUNE reporter yesterday that far too little care is taken to prevent the spread of the disease. The public seems almost indifferent concerning it. In order to confine scar-let fever within its present limits, the strictest care must be observed by both patients and those in at-

Dr. Janeway, of the Board of Health, yesterday furnished the following statement of the proper treatment of scarlet fever patients. This must be followed in every particular in order to prevent con-

After this there are various precautions to be taken. The carpet should be taken up. No books or articles should be taken from the room unless immediately fumigated. All discharges are to be received into a disinfecting fluid, and all bedding or clothing should be placed in boiling water before being carried away from the room. During the sickness the natient should the room. During the sickness the patient should be announted with cold cream. This prevents the fragments of skin from scattering. The were which was not worn during the sickness. The room must be thereogyly scrubbed, whitewashed and funigated with sulphur. This last operation is often carelessly and ineffectually performed. The proper way is to place the sulphur in a kettle, and this in a pan of water. A little alcohol peured upon the sulphur makes it burn easily. There must be no air stirring; windows and doors must be closed. The room should afterward be exposed to the air and left unoccupied for several days. Persons who have charge of the sick should change their garments and wash their hands before going out. In every case where scatlet fever proves fatal there should be a private funeral.

Dr. Janeway thinks that hot weather is less favorable for the increase of the disease than cooler weather. This he has noticed year after year. The reason is, that during the hot weather houses are more thoroughly ventilated, and the air, having free circulation, acts as a disinfectant.

DEPARTMENT OF PARKS. COMMISSIONER CONOVER'S RESIGNATION OF THE

OFFICE OF TREASURER. At yesterday's meeting of the Board of Park Commissioners, Commissioner S. J. Conover offered his resignation as treasurer of the Board and chairman of the Auditing Committee. The reasons assigned are the following: Up to the 3d of last January the power of purchasing materials had been vested in the president and treasurer of the Board. At that time it was transferred by resolution to President Wyman; consequently bills came in for lumber and other supplies, which were charged at a rate much higher than the market value of the goods at the time of the purchases. The Auditing Committee refused to audit these bills, and had them sent back time of the purchases. The Auditing Committee refused to audit these bills, and had them sent back for alteration. Commussioners Lane and Conover argued in favor of restoring to the treasurer the power of making all purchases, subject to the approval of the president. A resolution was offered by Commissioner Lane, sustained by Commissioner Conover, setting forth that the public interests require that the meetings of the Board and all their proceedings be made public, and that the secretary be instructed at the close of each meeting to give full particulars of the proceedings to the press. This was protested against by the rest of the Board, and the resolution was not adopted.

A resolution was offered and adopted for the removal of First Assistant Engineer of Construction in the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Wards, Thomas Franklin, as the appropriation was not sufficient to retain his services. The disagreement between the Park Commissioners and the hackmen has been amicably settled, as the latter have submitted to the dictates of the Board. An ordinance governing the hackmen along Fifty-ninth-st, and Central Park was ordered to be prepared. A resolution was passed making Commissioner Lane Inspector of Leases and Liceuses. A resolution was offered by Commissioner Lane protesting against the mode in which the contract of the Riverside Drive was being carried out, but it was voted down.

A SOCIAL SENSATION IN BROOKLYN.

Something of a sensation has been caused in the Eastern District of Brooklyn, by the elopement on Monday of William H. Guild, a pump manufacturer, of First-st., who lives at No. 95 Division-ave., and who is said to be at least sixty years of age, with Miss Rosella M. Stillman, age eighteen, the daughter of Amos B. Stillman, of No. 75 Ross-st. On Monday afternoon Miss Stillman accompanied her father to the Roosevelt Street Ferry. He came to this city, and she, he supposed, returned home. On his return, however, he learned that nothing had been seen of his daughter. Inquiries were at once made for her, and the Fourth Street Police were informed and exerted themselves to discover some traces of the missing young woman. It was learned that she had made some purchases on Broadway, although she told her father that she had no money. At length it was learned that Mr. Gaild had hired a carriage that evening, and that two young women entered it on Broadway. It was then driven to St. Barnabas's Church, in Bushwick-ave., near Kossuth-Barnabas's Church, in Bushwick-ave., near Kossuth-place., where a marriage ceremony was performed. On Tuesday the marriage of Mr. Guild and Miss Stillman was advertised, and it was added that they had sailed for Europe. Miss Stillman was the eldest of eight children. Mr. Guild is a widower, his wife having died about a year ago, and he has a number of grown-up children. He had frequently visited Mr. Stillman's house, but there had been no guspicion of an attachment between him and Miss Stillman, although he had given her presents.

CARING FOR THE DESTITUTE.

The wife of a veteran, who was severely wounded during the late war, made application for relief at the headquarters of the Sick Children's Mission, No. 709 East Eleventh-st., yesterday. She has three children-the oldest ten years, the youngest ten months old. The infant is very sick with inflammation of the lungs. Their mother has been obliged to give up the little work she had secured in order to nurse her babe; her busband, disabled by sickness, the result of his wounds, obtained admittance a few months since into the Soldiers' mittance a few months since into the Soldiers' Home at Bath, N. A DIVER SUFFOCATED IN HIS HELMET. JAMES W. JENKINS LOSES HIS LIFE IN SEARCHING

FOR THE ANCHOR OF THE SHIP BARBAROSSA. The ship Barbarossa, from Bremen-Haven, while oming up the harbor between Governor's and Ellis's Islands, some weeks ago, was run into by the outward bound steamer Italy, of the National Line, and was badly damaged. She also had her anchor cut away. In New-York, as in other large cities with harbors, there exists a class of men known as grapplers, and their business is to cruise the harbor in small row-boats and drag for sunken treasures, which on discovery are appropriated to their own use, or are disposed of to claimants on the payment of a fee. They are also frequently employed to grapple for dead bodies. Since the collision between the Italy and the Barbarossa took place several water-side men have been dragging the water in the vicinity of the accident in search of the lost anchor. A few days ago a crew of gramplers struck upon what was believed to be the missing object, in about eighty feet of water. A contract was made by the officers of the Barbarosa, which is undergoing repairs at the dry docks, with Joseph Wethecall to raise the anchor. "Old Jack" Reardion, a water-sade man, was called upon to assist in the work. James W. Jenkins, an experienced diver, was employed to go down and determine whether the object which had been sounded was really an anchor. For this purpose he made a descent on Tuesday evening, and reported that it was an anchor and a very large one, too. Arrangements were then perfected to raise it at the slack tide early yesterday morning.

The men left the Battery in two boats, the party consisting of "Old Jack" Reardon, "Pat" Connolly, Edward Neithcutt and Joseph Wetherall, with Jenkins, the diver, and his attendant, Hugh Bogart. But "Old Jack" claims to have had a presentiment of approaching trouble. "He was a good man," said he in speaking of the affair, "and we had worked together many and many a day. I looked at the hose and I thought it was poor, and I warned him not to go down, but he didn't seem to mind it. Just as we was leaving the Battery I says to him, says I, 'Jenkins, do you ever drink?' And he says 'No.' I saw he was determined to go down so we went on out to the spot." been dragging the water in the vicinity of the acci-he says 'No.' I saw he was determined to go down so we went on out to the spot."

Jenkins was carefully dressed in his diving suit, and his helmet being adjusted he descended, leaving Bogart at the air-pump, the two boats lying side by side. He reached the bottom, as was proved by the amount of the signal rope and the hose which supplied him with air. About five fathoms of the hose remained in the boat. Suddenly the portion of the air hose that was above water burst with a loud report. Bogart immediately pressed his two hands over the the aperture to keep the air from escaping, and the other men seized the rope and began to pull with all their might.

At last Jenkins was brought to the surface, one

all their might.

At last Jenkins was brought to the surface, one hand clutching the tube and the other pulling at the helmet in his desperate struggle against suffocation. As quickly as possible the helmet was removed, when it was found to be nearly filled with blood which was gushing from the diver's mouth, eyes, ears and nostrils. His features were horribly distorted, his muscles twitched, and his entire distorted, his muscles twitched, and his entire frame was convulsed. All efforts possible were made to revive him, but in less than a minute after he was drawn into the boat all motion ccased, and he was dead. His companions returned with him to Pier I, North River, and the body was subsequently taken to his home in West Fourteenth-st. Jenkins was about forty years of age, and one of the most expert divers in the city.

* STRIPPING A CHURCH OF FURNITURE. OPPOSITION TO MISS OLIVER'S ENTERPRISE IN

BROOKLYN. The Rev. Miss Anna Oliver's church enterprise in Brooklyn does not seem destined to advance without trouble. In April last she purchased the Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church, at Willoughby and Tompkins aves., which had become involved in financial difficulties and had to be sold under foreclosure. A chattel mortgage upon the furniture of the church and parsonage was held by Thomas Nostrand, a member of the church, who wished Miss Oliver to buy the furniture for $2,500. As she did not need the parsonage furniture and considered his price too high, she declined to make the purchase, but hired the furniture of the church for three months for $50. The three months expired on July 1, and last Sunday night Mr. Nostrand caused the removal of the furniture, including the carpets, cushions, seats on the platform, and other things. It is said that Mr. Nostrand also claims the ght to remove the Sunday-school library, class anners, pictures of the pasters, gas fixtures and banners, pictures of the pastors, gas accures and altar railings.

Miss Oliver says that the removal of the furniture will make no difference in her work, and that her meetings will be carried on as usual. She is a beensed preacher, having been regularly authorized to preach in Boston, but it is claimed that she cannot be ordained until next year. She finds, however, that her work is opposed by the regular Methodists, and says that a plan is on foot to build a new channel at Tompkins are, and Pulaskiest, to which chapel at Tompkins-ave, and Pulaski-st., to which The presiding elder of the district is said to be ter. The presiding elder of the district is said to be interested in this matter. In Miss Oliver's church there are two women in the Board of Trustees and three in the Board of Stewards. She says that the presiding cluer refuses to give letters of dismissal to persons wishing to join her church, although this is not done by the regular Methodist pastors in Breachlyn.

Brooklyn.

The church having been stripped of furniture, Miss Oliver and the ladies of the society have organized themselves into what they call a "serubing-brush committee," and intend to give the building such a thorough cleaning as it has never had.

TAXATION IN NEWARK.

The Newark Tax Commissioners met in conference at the City Hall Monday evening with the Controller, Auditor, Treasurer and Finance Committee of the Common Council, to fix upon the city rate of taxation for 1879. The sum to be raised for city purposes, is $1,144,550, and for county pur-$548,670. A question arose as to the legality of the Board's using some $76,000 of funds on hand in abatement of the amount to be raised, pending the determination of which the raised, pending the determination of which the Board adjourned until Tuesday evening. The rebate from the County for over-assessment of interest on road board bonds for 1877-778, amounting to $47, 754-24, and the sum of $28,748 received as preminm last Spring on bonds sold by the Controller at that time, make up the amount which the Finance Committee asked to be placed at the disposal of the Tax Commissioners, At 8 o'clock, Tuesday evening, a quorum of the Common Connecil not being present, a recess was taken, and o'clock, Tuesday evening, a quorum of the Common Conneil not being present, a recess was taken, and messengers were sent in search of some of the absentees. Half an hour later a quorum was secured, with but one Democratic Alderman present. It appears that the Democratic minority, hoping that the tax rate might be increased for political effect, absented themselves from the meeting with the view of defeating a quorum and consequently prevent the passage of the prepased ordinance. In this, however, they morum and consequently prevent the passage of he proposed ordinance. In this, however, they the proposed oraniance. In this, however, they were unsuccessful, the new ordinance being passed by a vote of 17 to 0. The rate is $2.06 on the $100, against $1.08 hast year, but this near, while the rate has been advanced, the valuation has been reduced 5 per cent, which will make the tax upon cal estate less than it was last year by 23 cents on the $1,000. The result of the meeting is looked upon as a triumph for the Republican administra-

OWNERSHIP OF LAND UNDER WATER. At the meeting of the Dock Commissioners yesterday, a equinanication was received from Corporation Counsel Whitney, giving his opinion as to the rights and powers of the city, the Dock Department and the East River Ferry Company, in respect to the pitr at the foot of Seventh-st., East River, lands under water between Seventh and Eighth-ale. Mr. Whitney decides that while the land under water may belong to the private owners, that under navigable waters is held subject to the power of the State to prescribe what the nature of the improvements of such property shall be to meet the requirements of commerce; and that the plab of the city does not contemplate that any of this property should be in use either for purposes, of piers or ferry slips. By establishing a permanent bulktead line further out than than the proposed improvements of the ferry company, the State thereby determines that it does not reserve this portion of the soil under water for purposes of commerce. This gives to private owners the right to fill in and become absolute owners, and destroys all wharfage rights on such premises; but the streets must remain open and unobstructed. The ferry company, having a franchise from the city, has a right to run a ferry from the point mentioned, but acquires no right to the perpetual maintenance of the structures it may build, and the Doek Department may at any time proceed to construct, or nature of the improvements of such property shall ment may at any time proceed to construct, or require the construction of, the new bulkhead, and cut off access over and through the water to the

THE SISK HOMICIDE ON STATEN ISLAND. BICHARD B. ROLLINSON HELD FOR THE DEED-THE PRISONER'S STATEMENT.

The inquest in the case of George Sisk, who was killed in front of his house in Tompkinsville, S. L. on the morning of the Fourth of July by Richard B. Rollinson, was resumed yesterday morning at the Village Hall, in Stapleton, by Coroner Gaffney. The prisoner was taken from Richmond Jail under the charge of Officer Fitzpatrick, to whom he was handcuffed. He appeared much depressed.

Mrs. Sisk was present, dressed in deep mourning, and was accompanied by several friends. At the request of the Coroner she signed her deposition. After doing so she exclaimed:

"I believe he intended to kill my husband; and if the one shot had not killed him he would have emptied the entire contents of his revolver into him. If a man can kill another in that way there is no law in the land." Francis Green, of Tompkinsville, then testified that he and a man named Taylor were sitting outside of Nelly's saloon on a large beer keg about halfpast 12 o'clock on the night of the 3d of July. Sisk approached them and said that a man living in a house opposite to his had found fault with him for firing a pistol. Taylor, who was the landlord of the house in which the man complained of lived, refused to give Sisk any satisfaction. Sisk remained there about fifteen minutes, when Rollinson, accompanied by another man, came down the street. He went to the door of Sisk's house. The winness said that he advised the murdered man to go home and not to mind Rollinson. Sisk said something about "that fellow coming back to his door," and ordered him away, saying as he did so that he did not want him there. A report of a pistol was then heard and Sisk fell.

The prisoner was at this point informed by the District-Attorney that he could make a statement, but that he was not obliged to do so. Rollinson spoke as follows: house opposite to his had found fault with him for District-Attorney that he comb make a statement but that he was not obliged to do so. Rollinson spoke as fellows:

"About 10 or half-past 10 o'clock on the evening of the 3d of July 1 left my place of business with two American flags. I stepped into Alfred Norman's to show them to him, having previously given him some others to decorate his place. On going toward home after 12 o'clock I heard a report and saw a flash, which seemed to be directed toward my house. I said that was not the proper time of night to fire off pistols, and that it would be better to wait until morning. Some one across the street made the remark: 'You had better go live with your kings and queens.' I then went into the house, and had partly undressed myself when I recollected that I had forgotten my flags at Norman's. I re-dressed myself and started down to Norman's to get them. The road at that time was undergoing repairs, and 'here being a pathway across to Mr. Sisk's house I crossed that way. As I passed I said that my remark about firing the pistol did not call for any insulting reply. Mr. Murray came down the stoop and said it was not her husband who made the remark. I was travited to war to have a way had a made the remark. I was travited to war to have a man came down the mad made the remark. Mrs. Marray also said it was not her husband who made the remark. I was turning to walk away when a man came down the street and said: 'What is the matter?' I recognized the man as George, but I did not know at the

"I said. 'Oh, it's nothing, George,' He turned round, facing me, and suddenly put his hand in his pocket and then behind his back. I said, 'George, what did you put behind your back i' He replied, 'nothing.' I then received a blow which staggered in the property of the me into the street, and George followed me, bringing his other hand forward. I drew a pistol from my pocket with the intention of warning him off. When I drew the pistol it exploded. I usually carry a pistol."

By the advice of counsel, Rollinson declined to say whether or not he put the pistol in his pocket when he went out of the house the second time, or whether he had it when he went out the first time. He declared that he had no animosity toward Sisk. The jury rendered a verdict after deliberating for an hour as follows: "George Sisk, the deceased, came to his death from a pistol shot wound inflicted by Richard B. Rollinson on the morning of July 4, 1879."

The prisoner was then remanded. His trial will probably take place in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in September.

PRICES OF COAL.

AUCTION SALES BY THE SCHANTON COMPANY AT AD-VANCED RATES-CIRCULAR PRICES OF THE LEAD-ING COMPANIES TO BE LOWER THAN FOR JULY. There was a fair attendance yesterday at the auction sale of Scranton coal, but the bidding was languid and lifeless. The prices realized were considerably higher than those obtained at the June sale, the average price showing an advance of 181g cents. Prominent operators, without dissent, expressed the opinion that the prices were not a fair indication of the state of the market. The president of a leading coal company exclaimed with great earnestness that Wall Street had more to do with making prices than producers or consumers had. Another officer said that the same person who at the sale bought stove coal at $2.75 had himself sold the same size on the previous day at $2.56 a ton. The general sales-agent of another company said that the market for coal was never more unsettled than at the present coal was never more unsertied than at the present time, and that the auction sale had added merely to the ancertainty. "The prices made on paper," he said, "are one thing; those made to a cash cus-tomer in want of a few thousand tons of coal are another, and—well, slightly different thing." The leading coal companies will issue to-day, prohably, their circulars for August. It is under-stood that prices will be considerably below those made yesterday at the sale, and far below those given in July circulars of some of the same com-

made yesterday at the sale, and far below those given in July circulars of some of the same companies. The prices will be nearly identical with those of the same companies in their May circular. It is understood that the prices of the Pennsylvania Coal Company will be nearly as follows: Grate, $2 15; egg. $2 0; stove, $2 45; chestuat, $2 40 a ton, delivered at Newburg. Those of the Delaware and Hodson Canal Company will be, it is said, 10 cents higher on all sizes than those of the Pennsylvania Company; its coal is delivered at Rondont.

The lots of grate and egg were disposed of at one price; stove opened at $2.75, at which about 19,000 tons were sold. and broke to $2 72½, at which the balance was taken; chestnut opened at $2 55 and advanced to $2 57½. VISITING MRS. SMITH AND BENNETT. MISS EMMA ABBOTT CALLS UPON THEM IN THEIR

It had been expected for some time that Miss Emma Abbott, who takes a great deal of interest in the case of Mrs. Jennie R. Smith and Covert D. Bennett, the alleged murderers, would pay a visit to the prisoners at the Hudson County Jail at Jersey City Heights On Tuesday night Miss Abbott was visited by the Rev. Dr. Rice, the clerical adviser of Mrs. Smith and Bennett, who took her a letter from James Fleming, one of the latter's counsellors, which informed Miss Abbott that she could now visit the prisoners without any danger of naving the object of her visit misconstrued. The visit was made yesterday noon. Miss Abbott was accommanied by Mr. Wethereil, her husband, the Rev. Dr. Rice and Sheriff Toffey. On arriving at the jail the party was taken at once to Mrs. Smith's cell.

Mrs. Smith had been told of the proposed visit, and she was awaiting the arrival of diss Abbott with great impatience. When the visitors entered the cell Mrs. Smith rushed forward without waiting the cell Mrs. Smith rushed forward without waiting for an introduction, and seizing her by the hands, expressed in language broken by emotion the pleasure she felt in meeting one who had taken such an interest in her case. The gentlemen then made a four of inspection through the jail, leaving Miss. Abbott and Mrs. Smith above. When they returned the two women parted with a hearty embrace and affectionate kisses. During the conversation no reference was made to the murder of Mrs. Smuth's husband. Mrs. Smith was very profuse in her thanks to Miss Abbott for her kindness in raising the amount necessary to carry her case before the higher courts.

Miss Abbott next visited Bennett and talked with him for some time. The Rev. Dr. Rice stated last evening that Miss Abbott and her husband had requested him not to repeat the conversations that took place in the prison. He said that in a general way Miss Abbott conversed with the two prisoners about their religious hopes, and gave them much good advice. er kinducas in raising the amount necessary to

DIED TO ESCAPE BEGGARY. SUICIDE OF AN OLD MAN IN CENTRAL PARK. Officer Michael Foley, of the Central Park police, was passing the restaurant near the arsenal in Central Park at 3 p. m. yesterday, when he heard the report of a pistol in the rear of the restaurant. Passing behind the building, he found in a clump of bushes the body of a German about sixty years old. The man had prepared a bed by laying some newspapers on the turf. He had then kain down, and with both his hands had pressed the muzzle of a large, old-fashioned horse-pistol against his forehead, and had discharged the weapon. The top of his head had been blown away by the explosion, and death had ensued instantly. On the body were found a note-book and some letters in the German language, which explained his suicide and furnished a clew to his identity. One of the letters was addressed to Michael Heidt, and read as follows: PEIEND HEIDT—When you hear of my death let my bedy be buried in some corner of a church-yard and do not allow any wicked presence to follow me o my grave.

There was also a scaled letter addressed to "Mrs. Schlunde, No. 231 Fifth-st.," and a scrap of paper with the following, scrawled in an almost illegible hand: "I have been sick fifteen years with rheumatism and I fear that I will have to beg in my old age. My pride would keep me from doing that. Therefore in my old age I will kill myself." In the note-book was a photograph of a young man who was believed Michael Heidt, who keeps a basket store in the basement of No. 20 Fourth-ave., said last evening that Schauermann had lived with him for a year or two, and had done a few errands now and then in part payment of his board. He had been too ill with rheumatism most of the time to do any work. Schauermann came to this country from Germany twenty-one years ago and worked in a brewery in Sixth-st. His wife died and his only son went West to soog his fortune. For several months he had threatened to commit suicide. Some weeks ago he placed $40 in Mr. Heidt's hands, saying that the money should be used to pay his tuneral expenses when he was dead. His body was at the Morgue last night. at the Morgue last night.

THE CHARGES AGAINST THE SHERIFF.

Joseph Larocque and Henry W. Bookstaver, of counsel for Sheriff Reilly, went to Albany yesterday to make answer before the Governor to the supple mental charges filed by the Bar Association Committee against the Sheriff. The Sheriff's counse asked for "an order dismissing the supplemental charges and specifications and vacating the order made thereon, or for an order directing the complainants to make such charges more definite and certain by pointing out the particular attachments or execuns under which it is alleged the Sheriff or his deputies took fees and compensation unauthorized by law; and also specifying the accounts of sales which complainants allege show the taking of illegal fees, and designating the portions of these books in which it is claimed have been entered the account sales under an attachment or execution on which illegal fees have been received." Sheriff Reilly, in an affidavit attached, swears that he gave the Bar Association full opportunity to examine his books, and that he has never received or allowed his subordinates to receive illegal fees of any kind. Under-Sheriff John T. Cuming swears that he gave the Bar Association Committee all the assistance and opportunity required to examine the Sheriff's books; that 25,834 processes under which property was attached were received in the Sheriff's office during the period covered by the charges; and that such account sales were made out entirely by the deputy, and that neither himself nor the Sheriff examined such accounts, except in special instances when complaints were made, when the deputy making inaproper charges was required to pay back the money to the person cutified to receive it.

H. W. Bookstaver swears that they had no previous notice, as promised by the complainants, of the latter's intention to file supplemental charges, and the complainant's counsel disclaimed any intention of doing so. They ask that the Governor, if he does not dismiss the supplemental charges, shall make complainants specify on which particular ones of the 25,834 processes illegal fees were charged, the portions of the books they can be found in, etc. those books in which it is claimed bave

A PRIVATE DETECTIVE ARRESTED,

Detective Robert A. Punkerton went to Dela anna, near Paterson, N. J., on Tuesday, to arrest Henry A. Hudson, proprietor of the village hotel, and got into trouble. He was accompanied by one of his assistants and a representative of ex-Sheriff Conner. Hudson was to be arrested for having once forfeited bonds which he had given to Sheriff Conner. In 1866 he indorsed a note for a person in this city, which in due time was proa person in this city, which in due time was pro-tested, and a judgment was obtained against the drawer of the note and the indorser. Hudson gave bonds for the payment of the note, but afterward, it is said, forfeited them and went to New-Jersey to live. From time to time efforts have been made to arrest him, but he has carefully staid away from this city. Arrested once by the New-York detec-tives, the New-Jersey Courts decided that Hudson could not be arrested in New-Jersey for forfeiture of those bonds.

As the ex-Sheriff was bound to produce Hudson as the ex-sterm was bound to promise transmit early next week or to pay the bonds, on Thesday Robert Pinkerton and a representative of the ex-Sheriff went to Delawanna to arrest him, but his friends interfered. Hudson appeared with a revolver, and threatened to shoot Detective Pinkerton. Finally it was decided to go to Paterson and have the matter of jurisduction settled.

cided to go to l'aterson and have the matter of jurisdiction settled.

The possible prisoner and the officers called on Hudson's lawyer, ex-State Senator Hopper. The lawyer decided that l'inkerton had no authority to make the arrest. Another dispute occurred in Mr.
Hopper's office, and the detective seized Hudson, and refused to let him go. A messenger was sent to Police Headquarters, and Detective Pinkerton and Hudson were arrested by the City Police, and taken before Recorder Warren. The circumstances of the case being stated, the Recorder discharged Hudson from custody, and held Pinkerton on a charge of faise arrest and attempted abduction.
The detective was released on bail late Tuesday night, after spending several hours in the County

THE BROOKLYN BOARD OF CITY WORKS. The Board of City Works held an executive session lasting for two hours and a half yesterday, and it was expected that many important changes in the employes would be made. Even the venerable Secretary Northrup was excluded from the meeting, and this gave rise to a rumor that he was to be removed, after thirty years' service. The only to be removed, after thirty years service. The only business transacted by the Board was the dismissat of James Dillon, General Inspector of Street Repairs, and the appointment of Michael J. Hannan in his place. Dillon has been connected with the department for ten years. He lives in the Eleventh Ward, and was formerly a regular Democrat. He subsequently joined the Independent Democrate organization, of which ex-Commissioner Flaheriy is one of the leading members. Hannan lives in the Fourth Ward, and is a member of the regular Democrate. is one of the leading members. The Board also directed the Chief Engineer to report to-day the names of 156 men to be employed in thirteen gangs for repairing the streets. Dillon's removal and Hannan's appointment are believed to have been made by unanimous votes. The General Inspector receives $55 a day.

MARRIED DESPITE HIS INTENTION. The suit of Barbara Rau, charging Jacob

Meinzer, a lawyer of Brooklyn, with abandonment, in which it was erroneously reported that the jury had the Sixth District Court, Brooklyn, in favor of the complainant. It appears from the decision that the young woman became intimate with Meinzer in 1876. To avoid goostp they agreed to call each other husband and wife, and on Febauary 25, 1877, they went to a resinurant and decared that they had been married by the Mayor. Until the September following they lived as man and wife, the defendant introducing the woman as his wife, the defendant introducing the woman as his wife, and addressing letters to her as Mis. Memer. A child was born of letters to her as Mis. Memer. A child was born of the Rev. Jacob Neander. An agreement was soon after made between the pair to separate. It gave her all the bousehold furniture until she should marry, and received him from all Hautities. After that, and antil April, 1878, he paid her $22. Because of the child sult was brought in her name against him by the Coordinationers of Charitles in April, 1878, and scaled for $100.

The defendant contends that he did not marry Burbers Bin, as their agreement was not in the presence of witnesses. Justice Sunt r holds that the marriage was a legal one, on the proof of the intimacy and the general reputation. For many years it has been the custom of railway companies to transport members of the theatrical profession at reduced rates. A few months ago several Western railroads refused to continue these privileges. A meeting of the United Amusement Managers' and Agents' Association was called for Monday afternoon last, at the Westminster Hotel, in order to appoint a committee to represent the association at a meeting of railroad men at Louisville, Septemper 16. The absence of many of the memorrs, however, caused an adjournment until yesterday, when again no meeting was held. Mr. Hanley, theatrical agent, of No. 14 Union-square, said to a Tribuna reporter that the matter would be allowed to drop, as the most prominent railroad be allowed to drop, as the most prominent railroad companies had no intention of altering their old arrangements.
